Wilmington Center rail station MBTA increases parking to 227

By SEAN DEVLIN
WILMINGTON - Representatives of the MBTA met with selectmen Tuesday night to discuss the updated design of the parking facility to accompany the proposed $5.2 million commuter rail station in the town center.

The 30 percent design, which originally allowed for approximately 170 parking spaces, has been increased to hold up to 227 vehicles and will be surrounded by greenery and be accessible to handicapped commuters as well.

"I have a personal interest in this," said Rep. James Miceli to the crowded room of officials and concerned residents. "I live here and I want to do what's right. I think that this is a plus for the community."

Miceli also said that he feels that the project will help to beautify the 600-foot stretch of Main Street often referred to by officials as an "eyesore" and "no man's land."

As a result of local concerns about the aforementioned staging area, the MBTA has agreed to tidy it up as part of the construction plan.

"We agree that the area is unsightly and are going to add some landscaping and fencing," said William Howell, the project's manager. "You'll see that area cleaned up. When you see that you'll know my word is good."

In addition to enhancing the roadside view, Howell said that the MBTA would take responsibility for maintaining the lot and would also provide short-term parking for patrons of the businesses remaining once construction is completed. At the moment, 30 spaces have been reserved for the purpose.

One of the major sticking points of the evening came when the MBTA representatives were asked to undergo a site plan review, but agreed to the process only if required by town bylaws.

"Every project that goes through of this magnitude or greater requires a site plan review process," said Town Manager Michael Caira. "I don't understand why the MBTA would hesitate to come before the review if it's a joint project."

Olin Corporation
Representatives of Olin Corporation joined in discussion with the board regarding the status of their current Eames Street site investigation.

The many-pronged approach that Olin is in the midst of to monitor and remedy contamination caused from another business occupying the location decades ago, was explained to the board in addition to present state of a groundwater plume of contaminants.

Over 40 years service West Intermediate says farewell to Jim Jordan

By ERIN DOWNING
WILMINGTON - Books and papers clutter the two desks stationed in the center of Principal Jim Jordan's office. Covering the right side wall are eight different sets of pictures from the North and West Intermediate Washington, D.C. school field trips. The pictures span through two decades, and looking at them is like taking a trip back in time - from bell bottoms to big hair. "You see the tree in the back ground," said Jordan, pointing to the 1977 picture. "Now look over here. See how the tree has grown in."

Jordan boasts that the two schools will once again visit Washington, D.C. But, this time someone will be missing from the picture. Come next fall, friends and colleagues will say goodbye to Jordan after 40 years in the Wilmington school system.

In 1959, Jordan started teaching science at the high school until the North Intermediate opened in 1962 and he left to teach science and math there. He then moved into the assistant principal position at the North Intermediate for twelve years, but his career would take another turn.

According to Jordan, Proposition 2 1/2 came in and eliminated the assistant principal jobs, leaving him to be the North Intermediate's acting principal for two years. Jordan's final transition was to the West Intermediate where he would be the principal for the next 13 years.

Questions Miceli votes Newhouse throws first jab

By AMY PETERSON
WILMINGTON - State Rep. Candidate, Michael Newhouse, has begun to throw some of the first rivalry punches at Democratic primary opponent State Rep. James Miceli, in what is expected to be a long, heated campaign race.

Newhouse alleged last week that Rep. Miceli voted against measures that would have helped children and senior citizens, and at the same time voted to furnish fellow legislators with $7,500 and $15,000 pay raises.

Newhouse said, "Miceli voted last week against a measure which would have exempted the first three thousand dollars of senior citizens' earned and unearned income from being taxed. During the same session, he also voted against a measure, which would have provided additional per pupil education funding. After voting against those measures, Miceli joined his colleagues and voted to give some leadership members pay raises."

Miceli defended the accusations saying, "I think that there is some confusion behind these accusations. These items are all amendments to the main budget for Fiscal Year 99."

Miceli said Newhouse appears to have a false conception of what happens with the budget amendments. In response to the pupil education funding, Miceli said, "We (Reps) did vote to raise the per pupil spending from $75 to $100 this year. There was a proposal to raise it to $125 per pupil. That was out-voted 106-48."

Miceli noted that he believes that the $125 figure would not be accepted on the Senate floor. "There is a whole process that this budget amendment has to go through after we vote on it," he said.

Once the amendment is voted on by Reps, it is sent to the Senate. The Senate amends it once again and it is next filtered through the conference committee. The conference committee sends it back to the Senate and House, who then compromise the final product. Finally, it is sent to the Governor, who may choose to either accept or veto it.

"This thing is not final," Miceli said, noting that The Senate has in the past been skeptical accepting per pupil monetary increases. "We knew that The Senate would not accept the $125 amendment, but we still raised it to $100," he said.

The $100 per pupil spending is one of the highest in the country according to Miceli.

In defense of the accusations made on the exemption of tax cuts for senior citizens, Miceli said, "I've always done everything I can to help the elderly. We have lowered taxes on unearned income from 12 to 5.7 percent, and we have lowered taxes on short-term capital gains from 12 to 10 percent. This particular item of the budget regarding the seniors was voted against 119-33, but is not over yet because it still has to filter through the rest of the government."

Lastly, Miceli noted that the pay raise accusation was off-base, and that the money was to go to new positions created in the state government. "This particular item has no personal benefit to me. The Speaker created these new positions to deter late night sessions and feeding frenzies that people have heard about. It allows the work to be done more efficiently. This amendment received a 126-29 in favor vote."

Newhouse said, "I would have voted in favor of the new tax exemption for senior citizens. I would also not have voted against additional education funding and then on the very next roll call voted to give legislators a pay raise. It only sends the wrong message—it is wrong."

WEST INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL PRINCIPAL JIM JORDAN will be looking forward to his retirement this fall. (Maureen Lamoureux)

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Closing down a business, especially a regular C corporation, has tax ramifications that should be considered beforehand. Pay off as much business debt as possible with corporate assets so that owners won't have to pay them personally. Where possible, make the company responsible for payroll and other compensation due the owner. As accounts receivable roll in, they are used to pay that debt and won't be taxable to the corporation.

Rather than pay dividends in the years before closing down, make distribution in the final year as liquidating distributions; these get tax-advantaged treatment as capital gains. Any assets that must be abandoned are worth a deduction that can be carried back for two years--and a possible refund.

Be sure all payroll and sales taxes have been paid; both owners and employees may be held liable. Don't distribute life insurance policies or appreciated property without consulting your tax advisor.

When there are important tax questions, consult with the tax people at

Wilmington man pleads guilty to food stamp fraud

BOSTON — A local man appeared in federal court yesterday and pled guilty to a charge that he committed fraud in connection the federal food stamp program.

United States Attorney Donald K. Stern announced that Antonio Dasilva of 139 Glen Road, Wilmington, MA, appeared yesterday in federal court before U.S. District Judge Edward F. Harrington and pled guilty to a one count criminal information charging him with defrauding the federal food stamp program.

At the plea hearing, a federal prosecutor informed the court that Dasilva operates a fish market in Roxbury that is authorized to accept and redeem food stamp coupons and the electronic benefit transfers that have now replaced food stamp coupons.

During a several month period in 1997, Dasilva, in violation of food stamp program regulations, accepted food stamp benefits in exchange for a discounted amount of cash, generally 50 or 60 cents for each dollar of benefits turned over to the store. Retail food outlets are expressly prohibited by federal regulations from exchanging cash for food stamp benefits.

At sentencing, which Judge Harrington scheduled for July 28, 1998, Dasilva faces maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and a fine of $250,000.

This case was investigated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Timothy Q. Feeley of the Major Crimes Unit of Stern's office.

Water quality volunteers from Wilmington, Tewksbury, Billerica, Chelmsford and other towns will meet at the Shawsheen River to learn sampling techniques for temperature, turbidity, dissolved oxygen and bacteria.

From June through September, Stream Teams will collect water quality data, assess river habitat, and identify recreational uses on the Middle Shawsheen and tributaries.

Local volunteers met earlier this month in Billerica to report initial findings and plan their "River Action" agenda for the 1998 season. Concerns include high bacteria levels, leaching effect of former landfills, and citizen and business education. The next action meeting will be Monday, June 8, 7 p.m. at Billerica Town Hall.

To join a stream team, or just attend the In-Stream training, call Alicia Lehrer or Rachel Baillargeon at MRWC, Lawrence, (978) 681-5777.

F.T.C. has tips for On-line auctions

WASHINGTON, D.C. - If you're looking for a hot collectible or simply a good deal, online auctions may appeal to you. But before you place a cyber-bid, consider how online auction houses work. Like a traditional "live" auction, the highest bidder "wins." That's where the similarity ends. Because an online auction house doesn't have the merchandise, the highest bidder deals directly with the seller to complete the sale.

If you're the highest bidder, the seller typically will contact you by e-mail to arrange for payment and delivery. Most sellers accept credit cards, or use a third party escrow agent to collect your payment, the product you're buying, and process delivery of each. Be cautious, however, if the seller asks you to pay by certified check or money order.

Some online sellers have put items up for auction, taken the highest bidder's money, and never delivered the merchandise. What's more, consumers who paid by certified check or money order had little recourse when it came to getting their money back.

Follow these tips before you bid in an online auction:

*Try to pay by credit card. If you don't get the merchandise, you can challenge the charges with your credit card issuer.

*Ask about using an escrow agent, or paying by COD. Most escrow services charge a fee, so you may want to consider this option only for larger purchases.

*Verify the seller's identity. If you can't, consider this a red flag and avoid doing business with the seller. Some sellers may use a forged e-mail header, making it impossible to contact them if you need to.

*Ask how you'll get follow up service if you need it. Many sellers don't have the expertise or facilities to provide service for the goods they sell. Is this important to you?

*Avoid impulse bids and purchases. Online auctions may be enticing, but are you really getting the best price?

*Ask about return policies. Returning merchandise to an online seller may be difficult.

Wilmington Minutemen will be hosting their annual Liberty Pole capping this weekend. Minutemen (and Redcoats) from all over New England will be gathering on the park opposite the police station to recreate life as it was in Colonial times. The exhibit is open to the public both days. There will be a parade on Sunday afternoon, followed by a battle as the Redcoats demand the Liberty Pole in defiance of King George III be stricken. Students learn of hand weaving rugs

WILMINGTON - Have you ever wondered how rugs are made, how long it actually takes to make a rug, or who thinks up the designs and patterns? Well, the children of grade two discovered this information when Melissa Gregorian of Gregorian Oriental Rugs visited their classrooms at the Woburn Street School.

Melissa Gregorian conducted a two part program that teaches the art and craft of rug weaving as well as fostering an understanding of other cultures, customs and traditions. This program helped the children to understand complex skills such as math, science, geography, language, pattern recognition while developing tactile senses and motor skills. Dying the wool and yarn was an exciting experience too.

In addition, Miss Gregorian read her own Rug Weaver's Tale, a story which was inspired by the many stories her grandfather told her about his childhood in the Middle East. This hands-on activity is the culmination to A Goat in the Rug, one of the children's favorite selections in their second grade reading book.

Congratulations to Brittani Winn, Katelyn McFeeters, Lenny Covometo, Jerry Gagne, and Debbie More, for their wonderful posters they created for the Bike Safety Poster Contest. They all received prizes donated by Wilmington Kiwanis.

Obituaries

The Rev. Willis P. Miller served Wilmington United Methodist Church 1966 to 1974

On Sunday, May 31, at 4 p.m., there will be a memorial service at Asbury Grove, Hamilton for the Rev. Willis P. Miller.

The Rev. Willis P. Miller, pastor of the Wilmington United Methodist Church from 1966-74 has been a "real pastor" and friend to residents of Wilmington and surrounding communities; pastoral calls average 900 a year, including hospital and prison visitation. He has served as president of the Council of Church for three terms. The ecumenical spirit has been felt through his leadership of eight active life transforming Bible studies.

An Evangelist, Mr. Miller has conducted crusades in So. Dakota, Kansas, Kentucky, No. Caroline, Rhode Island, Maine and in more than a dozen Massachusetts communities for a half dozen different denominations.

The Rev. Miller was a Methodist minister who used ventriloquism and slight of hand to bring his "Magic with a Message" to audiences throughout the world.

The former president of the American Council on Alcohol Problems and the Boston Assembly of the Society of American Magicians, he died in a nursing home in Beverly. He was 78.

The Rev. Miller was born in Everett. Since there were 23 ministers on his mother's side of the family, it was assumed that young Willis would share their calling, but his road to the ministry took a wide turn when he was eight years old. He attended a performance by the Great Thurston, who saved a woman in half. The reverend-to-be learned the secrets of magic and began to perform in local theaters while attending Everett High School.

When he wasn't performing or practicing, he agonized over whether to become a minister or a magician. One summer, when he was 18, magic won out and he traveled the state of Maine with a small carnival. But, at the end of the summer decided to reconsider his vocation.

The Rev. Miller graduated from Asbury College in Kentucky and attended Asbury Seminary, Gordon Divinity School, and Boston University School of Theology.

While pastor of Atlantic Methodist Church in Quincy and First Methodist Church in Lynn, he held the attention of his Sunday School students with magic tricks.

The Rev. Miller was also pastor of congregations in Beverly, Saugus, Jamaica Plain, Wilmington and Salem, and was summer minister at Asbury Grove in Hamilton for 40 years until his retirement in 1993. In 1973, he performed his "Magic with a Message" on the Rev. Billy Graham's Crusade in India. Three years later he joined Graham on his crusade in South America. "Magic, the Rev. Miller said in 1996, has opened doors I could never have walked through."

The Rev. Miller has introduced many evangelists in services at the Wilmington United Methodist Church and many have been led to Christ.

One of his favorite Bible verses is "I can do all things through Christ which strengthened me." We would agree that Christ has lived out his life in this faithful servant.

He leaves his wife Mildred "Jay" (Jordan), a son Donald and his wife of Hamilton; a daughter, Susan Henderson and her husband of Hamilton and four grandchildren.

Memorial contributions in his name may be made to: The Wilmington United Methodist Church Building Fund, 87 Church St., Wilmington, MA 01887.

WHS clubs enjoy banner year

by BEN DeGENNARO

WILMINGTON - The 1997-98 school year at Wilmington High School (WHS) has been one of change. It has also been one of annual activities that are enjoyed by all. Throughout the year, many students, faculty, and staff of WHS have made this year more enjoyable.

New to WHS this year are several clubs which were very productive. The Foreign Language Club, under the direction of Faculty Advisors Linda Bavuso and Judith Nowak, prospered. WHS used to have a Foreign Language club, but it was disbanded due to lack of interest. However, this year, Mrs. Bavuso mentioned the club to a few students and the Foreign Language Club resurfaced. The club has taken part in ethnic foods days, held field trips, and created a better understanding of foreign cultures and traditions at Wilmington High School.

The Technology Resource Group was also founded this year. Although the idea started last year, the club did not formalize until the 1997-98 school year. Senior Ben DeGennaro and Technology Coordinator Lee McCanne began to talk about the idea of a group of students who would manage technology within the Wilmington School Department. Along with DeGennaro, students Eric Brassil and Christina Lee created the first Technology Resource Group at Wilmington High School. The three students, along with Mr. McCanne, networked two computer labs at WHS, installed and upgraded software, and provided technical assistance to the WHS student and faculty population. When Congressman John Tierney donated several computers to the English Department at WHS, the Technology Resource Group took charge of setting up the computers and keeping them running.

The Student Council was active this year. Under the direction of Advisor Linda Peters, President Mike Vitali, Vice President Dave Ward, Secretary Angela Fiorenza, and Treasurer Michelle Cronin, the Student Council has participated in the annual food drive, the Christmas craft fair, Make a Difference Day, the Halloween Dance and the Easter Seals basketball shoot-out.

The 1997 Christmas Craft Fair, sponsored by the Student Council was held Saturday, November 29. The craft fair, an annual event was held in the WHS cafeteria. Approximately 50 crafters turned out for this event. Mr. and Mrs. Claus, along with Willie the Wildcat were on hand for personal appearances.

In its second year, the Wilmington High School Chapter of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) sent 18 students to Districts 13 to States and two students attended the National Convention in Denver, Colorado. Approximately 30 awards were presented to DECA members this year. For a second year chapter, that is an outstanding accomplishment. The entire chapter would like to thank Mrs. Frances Boudreau for being the group's advisor. You are an outstanding DECA advisor and we want to thank you for everything! We would also like to thank

Mrs. Martha Boudreau for traveling with the chapter as a chaperone to the District Conference. We appreciate your time, dedication and support.

Brad & Roses, a program that works to feed the hungry of Greater Lawrence began its 10th year at WHS. A large number of students who attend WHS prepared a portion of a meal once a month. School Nurse Norma Rushton and teacher Stoddard Melhado organize the event. A big thanks to these hard working individuals.

Mrs. Rushton also organizes the Medical Careers Club. This club began a few years ago, and has been growing ever since. The students learn about careers in the medical field and participate in internships in the medical field. The students have taken trips to Winchester Medical Center in order to study these careers.

Fellow Brad & Roses coordinator, Stoddard Melhado is also the coordinator for the Wilmington Public Schools Peer Mediation Program, the Wilmington Public Schools Peer Leadership Program, and Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD). Mr. Melhado is one of the high school's finest faculty members. Thank you for all the work you've done.

Several of Mrs. Joyce Beckwith's French students traveled to France for the France Exchange trip. Eighteen students, along with Foreign Language teachers Joyce Beckwith and Karen Aruri, and School Nurse Norma Rushton headed to France shortly before February vacation. Later, during April vacation, their counterparts arrived from France. The students toured historic sites and had some fun. Mrs. Beckwith and Ms. Aruri hope that the trip will be successful again next year.

A few of the profiles included this year: Stacey Kendall, a senior and a member of National Honor Society and the Wildcat News; Scott Swiezynski, a member of Peer Mediation, DECA, and a representative to the School Advisory Council and School Committee; Michael Garbati, a member of Bread & Roses, and Medical Careers Club; Cheryl Lecsse, vice president of SADD, sports editor for the Wildcat News, and co-secretary for the National Honor Society; Michelle Baker, a member of the Prom and Yearbook Committees; Leann Bento, a member of the Student Council, Bread & Roses and a Junior Rotarian and Todd Koneiczka, a member of the Wildcat News layout team and a member of DECA.

The Drama Club held its annual play, From Page to Stage. The play depicted two novels by Shirley Jackson, The Lottery and The Summer People. The Drama Club, advised by English teacher Matt Joyce performed an outstanding play.

The Wildcat News completed six issues this year. The Wildcat news attended its first Greater Boston Newspaper Competition. Although we did not win any awards, we were able to meet other high school newspaper staffs from around the Boston area. The staff would like to thank faculty advisors Kathy Bell, Joyce Beckwith and Marie Shack for all their help this year. We would also like to thank Mrs. Peggy Power in the Copy Center for printing the paper for us. Several members of the Wildcat News staff will be graduating this year and new members will come to take their places. Editor-in-Chief Ben DeGennaro, Assistant Editor Stacey Kendall, Business Manager Karen Tohm, Sports Editor Cheryl Lecsse, Art Editors Ilona Berlik and Melanie Devine, and Co-Lay-out Director Todd Koneiczka will all be graduating this year. We wish the new staff members luck.

Other faculty profiles this year have included returning math teachers, Ms. Gayle Masse (also the Math League Advisor) and Ms. Paula Byrne, the new Library Media Specialist at WHS. Thank you for a wonderful year.

New additions to the school have included two computer labs. One in the Business Department and one in the Science Department. The Business Department Computer Lab has allowed students to use Microsoft Office, Windows 95, and other computer programs. The Science Computer Lab is set up as a microbased laboratory (MBL). The computers in the science lab are equipped with motion sensors, thermometers, oxygen sensors and other similar equipment.

Social Studies Department Chair Bob Cripps, and history teacher Abby Russell took students to Framingham State College to participate in the 25th annual Phi Alpha Theta State History Conference. Students wrote research papers and then later discussed them at the conference.

Overall, this year was a success. I would like to thank Mr. Edward Woods, principal of WHS and to congratulate him on his first successful year as principal. WHS is a better place.

Foreign Language Club doing more than just talking funny

by COLLEEN MURPHY

WILMINGTON - This year at Wilmington High School (WHS) a lot of new things have developed. One of these new things includes the Foreign Language Club. This club has been very successful this year and will surely become one of the most interesting and popular clubs at WHS.

The Foreign Language Club's purpose is to expand cultural awareness of students at WHS. This is done through hands on experience of different foods, arts and crafts, and dances from around the world. This hands on experience makes different cultures more interesting because this makes it easier to understand. Although this club is educational, it is also a lot of fun.

This is the first time in almost 20 years that there has been a Foreign Language Club at WHS. Foreign Language teachers Ms. Judith Nowak and Mrs. Linda Bavuso first organized the idea of restarting a Foreign Language Club at WHS. The teachers got positive feedback from both the principal and the students.

The advisors for the Foreign Language Club this year are Mrs. Linda Bavuso and Ms. Judith Nowak, Spanish teachers at WHS. The club has also experienced a great deal with Ms. Karen Aruri, French and Spanish teacher at WHS. Ms. Aruri has not only assisted the club with planning activities, but has also taught the club a great deal about cultures. The officers of the Foreign Language Club are: President, Robin Diorio, Vice President, Kara Irving and Secretary/Treasurer, Colleen Murphy.

The officers help the advisors in planning activities and organizing the club to make it easier to run. The officers also make sure that the members know when there is a meeting.

The club experienced many activities this year. Its first activity was el Dia de los muertos (a Spanish holiday) where the members created skeletons and decorated them. This is very common in the Spanish culture. The club also made and decorated masks for the holiday Mardi Gras. For St. Patrick's Day the club sampled Irish Soda Bread, watched the movie Riverdance, and had a demonstration of Irish Step Dancing from a fellow student. The club also made pinatas, and learned how to make truffles and homemade pizza. For the last meeting, each member of the club made and brought in different foods from around the world, and held an ethnic food afternoon.

The club also went on a field trip to an Ethnic Portuguese restaurant and enjoyed art from around the world. A possible field trip for next year includes a trip to New York and the United Nations, and other popular spots.

The Foreign Language Club has experienced a very successful and fun year this year. I wish the club the best of luck, and hope that it is successful in the future.

Scott Swiezynski and Shea Marden brought home certificates of achievement from the National DECA competition in Denver in April. Shea also won 2 medals finishing in the top ten in the Services Marketing category.

To get to the Nationals they first had to place in the top 3 of the State testing. The young men said that they had a fair amount of free time to enjoy Denver. Shopping and walking about in the Mile City was quite enjoyable.

After School Studies enjoyed high attendance and heavy participation

TEWKSBURY - Forty-six students took advantage of a pilot program for After School Enrichment Classes, sponsored by the Parent Advisory Council. The programs offered for this pilot run were basic computer skills and theater arts.

The PAC surveyed families, students, and staff for topics of interest and convenient times.

The most requested courses of interest were introduction to computers, introduction to French, creative writing and drama. Unfortunately the PAC was unable to secure a French instructor for this pilot program but is looking forward to offering this course in the fall.

Twelve students in grades three through five participated in the introduction to computer under the direction of Mrs. Mary Manseau. They learned proper typing techniques, data storage and retrieval from floppy disks, and worked on creative stories and poems with word processing software.

Thirty-four students in grades K-five participated in a double session of theatre arts, led by Mrs. Trudi Hennemuth and Mrs. Judith Fitzgerald. These students explored role playing, verbal expressions and puppetry. Groups of approximately seven children each treated parents, friends and family to short puppetry skits during the final session. One group even chose to write an original story, "The Fox and the Bird."

More than 95 percent of the students who enrolled in these programs had perfect attendance which indicates to the PAC that this service is considered valuable and desirable to the families of Trahan.

They look forward to offering many sessions of a variety of topic next all and throughout the academic year.

School Principal Mr. Paul, will present certificates from the PAC to students who participated in these programs Friday afternoon at approximately 1:30 PM.

Senior Topics

WILMINGTON - Today the Council on Aging would like to share some important information about a consumer alert. This consumer alert is for nursing home residents and their family members, friends and advocates as well as future nursing home residents and their supporters. Much of the following information comes from a study done in the fall of 1996 at UMass, Boston through the Gerontology Institute. The purpose of the study was to measure the compliance of Mass. nursing homes' admission agreements with federal and state laws protecting the rights of nursing home residents. The study examined admission packets for 45 nursing facilities in the Boston area, including Suffolk, Middlesex, Norfolk and Plymouth counties. The results are startling. All 45 nursing home admission agreements which were studied contained provisions that the facility knew or should have known to be legally invalid or likely to confuse or deceive residents and their families.

The following are six areas of misleading or illegal information in admission agreements:

1. Waivers: A facility may not have a resident sign a waiver saying that the facility disclaims responsibility for personal injury to the residents while she/he is at the facility or whenever he/she leaves the facility. A facility may not have a resident sign a waiver of liability for the protection of the resident's personal property, nor a waiver of liability for actions of the nursing home physicians and staff.

2. Transfer and discharge: Residents have the right to refuse certain intra-facility transfers, and a facility may discharge a resident only for certain specific reasons.

3. Third party financial liability: A facility may not require a third party guarantee of payment as a condition of a resident's admission or continued stay. Family members are not legally liable to pay the nursing home charges with funds other than the residents' own funds and assets.

4. Collection costs and attorneys fees: As a condition of admission or continued stay, a facility may not require a resident or third party to agree to pay attorneys fees or collection costs incurred while collecting payment from the resident.

5. Choice of physician and pharmacy: Residents have the right to choose their own attending physician and their own pharmacy.

6. Charges for services provided: Prospective residents are entitled to information about what services are, and are not, covered under the daily rate of the facility.

For more information and for free legal assistance to address the legal rights of nursing home residents in your area, including but not limited to legal issues pertaining to nursing home admission contracts, please call: Cambridge & Somerville Legal Services, Senior Citizens' Law Project, 432 Columbia St., Suite 16, Cambridge, MA 02141 (617) 494-1880.

On June 17, 1998 at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Woburn from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., there will be a Life Enrichment Expo for Seniors. Live music, dance, beauty, health, fitness, fashion, computers and crafts - these are a few things you will find. This event is sponsored by First Seniority/Harvard Pilgrim Health Care and admission is free. There will be entertainment throughout the day including live music featuring the Tony Barrie Orchestra and line dancing. Exhibitors will provide free health screenings, product giveaways and information. Health related seminars will also be scheduled throughout the day.

Champs again

Congratulations goes out to the Wilmington High School Class of 1982 for winning the annual WHS Battle of the Classes Tournament held at the Town Park this weekend. Once again they won the tourney with ease behind the big bats from everyone. Enough about them, yeah they are awesome, but retire will ya? Let some other teams play...that was a joke.

Nice job, teams

Another congratulations goes out to several league champions in the high school sports scene. The Tewksbury girls softball team captured the small school MVC crown, while the Tewksbury girls track team with its 13 all-conference selections, were once again crowned MVC small school champs, too.

In Wilmington, the softball team captured their third straight Cape Ann League Large School Division Championship in as many seasons.

League changes

Starting in the fall, the Cape Ann League is switching its league and its scheduling around. No longer will the league be divided up into three divisions and no longer will a team have to play its division opponent twice with the other two divisions just once. Now every opponent will be played once and the program has the decision whether they want to play a certain team for the second time which would count as a non-league game or the program can decide to play eight non-league games, instead of five.

Baseball tryouts

Wilmington Summer Baseball will hold its tryouts for the upcoming Bay State Baseball Summer Season this Sunday, May 31 at the Glen Road Fields. Tryouts for the 11 and 12-year olds for the A&B teams will be from 1 to 3 p.m. The 9 and 10-year olds who will be trying out for the C team will begin their tryout at 3 p.m.

McGonagle steals the spotlight

By JEFF NAZZARO
Sports Correspondent

Michelle McGonagle is that rare athlete who through natural ability and sheer will is able to positively effect the outcomes of sporting contests on a consistent basis. With blazing speed, balletic grace, and indomitable drive, she is able time and again to elevate herself and her teammates around her.

"She is one of the most competitive women I've ever met in athletics," said Michelle's softball coach at Austin Prep, Dave Gramling. "It's rare to find someone who is that intense all the time and can carry it from one sport to another so easily."

McGonagle, who lives in Wilmington and also stars in soccer and basketball for Austin, leads the 15-2 Cougars with a whopping .615 batting average, which includes four home runs, three doubles, and three triples. She has also stolen 31 bases so far, which gives her 118 for her career. And she's still just a junior.

Gramling started up the softball program at Austin five years ago. McGonagle has started for Gramling for the last four of those, beginning when she was in eighth grade. Not coincidentally, Austin has qualified for the state tournament in all four of those years.

"She's the best athlete on the team by far and she's the heart and soul of the team," Gramling said. "She has the gift of speed and a savvy for the game."

Those attributes, along with her unquenchable desire to learn, allow her to do some amazing things on the playing field. Like turning a bad bunt into a two-run homer.

That happened last Friday at Austin, with Hudson Catholic paying a visit and a share of the Suburban Catholic League crown for Austin at stake. With one run in and a runner on second, Austin leading Wilmington resident and Austin Prep junior Michelle McGonagle has been nothing short of incredible as a three-sport star for the Cougars. Here she attempts a slap hit in the softball team's win on Friday. (Photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

3-0 in the top of the fifth, McGonagle laid down a bunt. It went a little too hard and right at the pitcher. But by the time that pitcher bent, fielded the ball, checked third and then threw to first, McGonagle had used her deadly speed to beat it out.

Then, she really turned it on. When the ball went back to the pitcher, McGonagle, seeing the first-and-third situation that had arisen, took off for second. But rather than take the base, which was unguarded at the time, she hung up to draw a throw. When it did come, it went, too, right into center field and McGonagle flew around third to score with a two-footed stomp on home plate and an emphatic "oh yeah!"

Hudson didn't even have a play at the plate. This game was over.

As much havoc as she causes on

Baseball team played ultimate classic and then?

BY JAMIE POTE

Seldom do you have a chance to have that giant piece of chocolate cake in front of you, nevermind having a bite of it. Well that was the case for the Wilmington High baseball team.

On Monday afternoon, Wilmington and Reading played an ultimate classic, a nailbiting nine inning affair that saw Reading pull away as the winners, 2-1 despite many outstanding individual plays on both sides. The following day, Wilmington took a trip to Tewksbury and after playing three lackluster innings, head coach Dick Scanlon responded with more than an earful to his players. They woke up, banging out six runs in the fourth, but the three effortless innings really hurt them, losing 10-7.

Wilmington finished the regular season at 12-8 as they will get ready for state tournament play which will begin early next week. There

If you were outside on Monday - working on your yard, opening your swimming pool or mowing the lawn - then I feel bad for you. You spent your day off working, while us sports nuts, enjoyed the holiday watching two incredible ball games.

While enjoying the gorgeous sunny afternoon and then the nice and comfortable evening, those of us who witnessed the Wilmington High baseball and softball games were treated very nicely on the holiday.

Both of those games, definitely have cracked my top ten list of all time games I have witnessed over the years as a sportswriter here (game stories inside). How could anyone not enjoy two extra inning thrillers, with both of them supplying not only outstanding plays all-around, but spectacular pitching on both ends? When it was all over around 9:30 on Monday night, both the Wildcat baseball and softball teams lost. But really who cares? If I'm a coach or a member of those teams I would take 20 of those losses, COLUMN PAGE 14

Runners compete in CAL Championships

by Marcella Sweet
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington competed in the last two league meets of the season as the Cape Ann League held the CAL JV meet on Thursday in North Andover, and Lynnfield hosted the CAL Championships on Saturday. At both meets, Wilmington came up with some outstanding performances.

JV Meet

The future could be promising for Wilmington as the JV Boys and Girls teams combined for five firsts, four seconds, and one third place at the CAL JV meet on Thursday. "I'm very pleased with their performance," said Coach Cripps of his runners. "This was a good meet."

Jason Crescenzo ran his best race of the season and broke five minutes as he won the Mile in 4:55.8. Team Manager Adam Campbell put down his clipboard and ran the 200 - and didn't finish last. In the Discus, Colleen Murphy's 79' toss was her best of the season. Suzanne Berghaus was third in the 800.

Also placing for Wilmington: 2-Mile - DeGennaro (2), 100 - Cahill (2), 4x100 Relay - Frongillo, Ruggerio, Soroka, Carr (1) 49.5, 4x400 Relay - Fournier, Frongillo, Crescenzo, Carr (1) 3:58.07, High Jump - Fournier (1) 5'6", Pole Vault - Bonnell (1) 9'6", Ruggerio (2), Triple Jump - Soroka (2).

CAL Championships

Wilmington medaled in six events and eight new state-qualifying statements (two new qualifications and six improved times) were filed as a result of this meet.

Newly qualified, two 4x800 teams, will now compete in next week's State Class Meet. The boys time of (8:54.82) was run by Rourke, Monteiro, Crescenzo, & Meyers, while for the girls it was Bransfield, Tate, Rufo, & Moscufo (11:01).

First place finisher, Laura Winn, won the 300 Hurdles easily with her personal best (PB) time of 46.3. She added a third place ribbon with teammates Gillespie, Kacamburas, & Flynn in the 4x100 Relay. Matt Kacamburas shaved another four seconds off his 2-Mile and took second place with 10:05 (PB). TJ Flynn was third in the 400 with a time of 51.5 (PB), then finished second in the 4x400 Relay with teammates Sweet, DiGiovanni, Minghella, & Kilburn also finished second with a time of 45.5 (PB).

Senior Cheryl Lecsse finished her final season on a high note - her 12:39 2-mile was her best ever. While freshman Kim Gillespie made it to the finals in the 200 with a time of 28.4 (PB), and finished sixth overall.

McMahon known for more than incredible tennis talent

BY JESSICA MARTIN
Sports Correspondent

There's never been much of a youth tennis program here in Wilmington. In some towns instructional clinics are given so that children are better prepared for the level at which high schools compete. In Wilmington there are youth organizations for soccer, softball, hockey, basketball, and baseball, but there are none for tennis. Instead, many players who join the team as freshmen have never picked up a racket before. This lack of experience often hurts Wilmington in its division and forces teams to rely on the raw talent that special players bring to the team. Four years ago the girls tennis team got more than they bargained for when Sara McMahon joined the team.

Sara brought a great attitude, a sense of humor, and an incredible amount of talent to the team. Like many other of the players, freshman year was her first time ever playing competitively. Her talent was evident even as a freshman. A year later she was taking lessons from a coach. Even without the lessons Sara was incredible. By junior year, Sara dominated her opponents. It was hard to imagine that she hadn't been playing more than four years. Her confidence, determination, and skills on the court made up for any lack of experience she may have had. "Yeah, she was a great captain, wicked funny, wicked nice" say another team mate. The team looked up to Sara because she was "awesome at tennis" and really funny and nice off the court. But teammate, Sue Carozza summed up the feelings of the team best when she said "Since I was a freshman, I always thought Sara was an unbelievable player, she has gotten better and more unbelievable every year".

As a senior, Sara has had an impressive year, her best of the four years and according to her "the most fun and the most awesome". Although the team finished a lackluster 3-12, Sara went 10-3, playing the most difficult and challenging position in the game at first singles. McMahon has ruled that position since she was a sophomore.

It's exciting to watch Sara play because she's so good. She hits back hands that make opponents cringe. Her serve is always accurate if not devastating and although Sara claims that her "volleys are really weak", there seems to be no weak part in her game at all.

Concerning Coach Deb Turri, Sara says "you gotta give her a lot of credit, she took over half way into the season, it was an awkward position. Deb has been great though. I like the strategy of rotating the second doubles teams because they're all evenly matched".

Apart from being an amazing tennis player, Sara has played soccer since she was a freshman. She's also a member of the National Honor Society, SADD, Bread and Roses, jazz band, and president of the band. Sara plans to attend UMASS Amherst in the fall and is still debating whether she will play tennis for the college. Sara definitely has the talent and the skills. And so the Wilmington Girls Tennis team says farewell to an incredibly gifted captain and wishes her luck in the semi-finals.

"Sara always made it seem so easy", remarks teammate, Mary then ten 16-2 wins over Georgetown or some sub-par team like that.

This time around the baseball team faced a very good Reading team sporting an 15-2 record which is tops in the Middlesex League. As for the softball team, they took on a very good Billerica team, who was sporting an 12-4 record which was second behind Dracut in the MVC Large School division. The results? A 2-1 nine-inning loss to Reading for the baseball team and a 1-0 ten-inning masterpiece game between the Wildcat and Indian softball teams. "I don't think anyone left the park early," said WHS softball coach Paul Lyman. "What a game, you don't even get state tournament games as exciting as this one."

As for Scanlon he commented with, "It was a great game - either side could have won it and both sides played very, very well. It was a terrific game to watch."

That they sure were. I really want to tip my hat off to the four teams who supplied the holiday with some of the best brand of high school ball you'll ever find. Both games had good crowds, cheering and clapping loudly after every fine play, strikeout, base hit or stolen base. It was truly something. And I hate to rub in it to those who ended up doing something they didn't enjoy, for me and the others, Monday was a day that makes sports, high school sports and Wilmington sports so unique. I'm not one for the pitcher's duel, but all five pitchers who pitched in the two games have never been known to dominate a game, and that they all did.

It's really too bad that Wilmington can't have more of these exciting, heart-thumping games. Yes they do have three or four close games during the softball and baseball seasons, while the majority of the others should be over in the second inning due to the Mercy Rule. In either case, in softball and baseball, Wilmington proved that they can play with the big clubs and to be honest, both clubs have been stronger in prior years and the baseball team started a kid who had never pitched a varsity inning in San Quigley and he dominated a first place team from the Middlesex League. What does that say? What would undefeated Scott Swiezynski have done against the Rockets?

This is not a first either, the baseball team beat Reading two years when the Rockets went on to win a state championship. And we all know what the softball team has done, they have now lost two one-run ball games to two different Division I powerhouses in Agawam and now Billerica. I think that does a lot more for the team to improve upon their game instead of a 17-2 thumping over Manchester.

Anyhow, it was really something to see both games as exciting as they were. Both games were very intense, enjoyable and both of them supplied many ESPN SportsCenter highlights. A few examples could be Reading's second baseman Dan Foley magical glove and range that saw he make several outstanding plays to take a few hits away from the Cats. Speaking of second baseman how about Catherine Townsend's over the shoulder catch on the grass of right field on a ball that had hit written all over it? What a grab! Oh, what about Brian McCarthy's nice running catch in right field going to his right on a ball that looked like a gap shot for sure? How about Emily King's catch staying in play at the Wilmington bench going far to her right? Or how about the two rifle shots back at the mound at Quigley and reliever Mike Heffernan that fortunately bounced off their gloves, and then to the plate on Heffernan's to get a big out at the plate? Ugh, those could have hurt.

Besides those, in the two games there were a combined seven runners thrown out on the bases whether trying to steal one or stretching a base hit out and a combined 28 strikeouts in 19 innings of play. Mixed in between all of that was some stellar defense, great stretches and two games that were brilliantly called by the umpiring crews.

All of that is what makes sports so great, especially here in Wilmington.

the base paths, McGonagle, from her catcher's position, makes sure the other team doesn't get too carried away.

In the top of the sixth of the same game, Hudson Catholic got a rare runner on first with two outs. But when she took a lead after a pitch, McGonagle stood, took a step and fired to first, catching the stunned runner, who was thrown out at second.

It's her ability to impose her will on any one game so completely that has McGonagle and Austin Prep looking mighty dangerous heading into this year's Division 3 State Tournament. She also calls all the pitches for sophomore hurler Alexis Lawrence, who has tossed four no-hitters and twelve shutouts this season, including a no-no in that Hudson Catholic game.

It helps that the Austin battery mates play summer ball together for the Saugus Alley Cats. And it shows. With McGonagle calling and Lawrence bringing, Hudson Catholic put only three runners on base all game, and all reached via error.

"Michelle wants the ball," Gramling said. "She likes that sense of control."

She knows what to do in most situations and really enjoys doing it.

"I like trying to confuse the batters and throw them off balance."

McGonagle said of her pitch calling. "When they're off balance we can get them to swing and miss and get that third strike."

Which McGonagle and Lawrence did a total of 13 times last Friday. Michelle says she calls pitches according to a batter's particular stance and based on what she knows of that hitter. Better hitters will be able to see a change up coming and adjust their swing, for instance, but weaker and overanxious hitters will be dead ducks when that brutal string is pulled.

She'll also watch opposing pitchers warming up and opposing catchers throwing down to second in warm ups. She sees everything and takes mental notes. And uses the information. All of this, a tremendous attitude, and a feel for the game that can't be taught make Michelle a special kind of athlete.

In the hands of good coaches, like Wilmington High's Paul Lyman, who used to coach McGonagle in ASA summer softball and Gramling, she has emerged as a potent, polished player. Ask her where she gets it, the answer is simple.

"From playing so much and just learning different techniques," she says. "Learning the right way to do things and just doing it all the time."

Like hitting, stealing bases, throwing out runners, winning games. Michelle McGonagle brings it all to the plate.

Amy Surran completes successful debut season

Freshman pitcher/third baseman Amy Surran of Wilmington, has recently completed her first season as a member of the 19-19 Curry College Commonwealth Coast Conference Champion softball team.

For the second time in two seasons the Curry College softball team is the Commonwealth Coast Conference Champion. The Lady Colonels defeated new England College 4-3 in a come from behind thriller in the CCC tournament quarterfinal, then avenged an early season loss to Gordon by bouncing the Scots 1-0, and finally downed Salve Regina 5-2 on May 2 to retain CCC bragging rights.

The dependable Surran played in 22 of Curry's team record 38 games this season. On the mound she posted a 1-3 record in 19 innings of work with a 5.16 ERA. Opponents batted just .192 against her. Surran completed two of her four starts while striking out 13. At the plate this season, Surran showed promise with a 1-2 performance to support her only win of the season in a 6-5 decision over Pine Manor on March 17. In the Lady Colonels 15-7 win over Emerson College on April 6, Surran scored a run and batted in three runs.

With teammate and Commonwealth Coast Conference Pitcher of the Year Michelle Maiocca graduating, Surran should ease her way into more innings for the two-time defending CCC Champions next season.

Surran is the daughter of Louise Southmayd of Wilmington and is slated to graduate with the Class of 2001.

Softball team goes extra frames They don't get any better than this

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For two-and-a-half hours, excitement peaked with every pitch, every base runner and every out. Many hearts were pumping so loud that the noise overshadowed every 50 mile per hour pitch nailing the catcher's mitt and every crack of the bat off the aluminum.

For two-and-a-half hours, Robin Mainini of Wilmington and Missy Crear of Billerica battled viciously, trying to out do the other, trying for that little extra edge of dominating its opponents. In-between all of that, the intensity and the drama certainly was on its edge of every pitch from the two hurlers, on every swing of the bat, on every call.

For two-and-a-half hours, both Billerica and Wilmington showed off their pitcher's arms, their players' golden gloves, their mechanically sound and style of softball that is hardly seen anywhere. There two coaches, very good friends of each other, were trying to out due each other's strategies, trying to pull off a big win in front of a great crowd on a gorgeous evening at the Town Park.

When the tenth inning arose, still scoreless, and the two teams going neck-to-neck and the game being held on with practically every motion, it was Billerica who came out on top, winning the game 1-0 in what could be called one of the best all-time games involving the WHS Softball team.

True, Wilmington made four combined mental and physical errors in that tenth inning to elude to the loss, but when it all counts, it was ten innings of incredible softball, many outstanding plays on both sides and two teams giving the fans every single ounce of effort and love for the game that they had. Both styles were similar, many bunt attempts no matter the situation, many slap hit tries and two teams gearing up for post season play in a game that vastly resembled just that.

"I don't think anyone left the park early," said WHS coach Paul Lyman. "What a game, you don't even get state tournament games as exciting as this one."

In all Billerica bunted successfully eight times, two reached on errors/fielder's choice, one was sacrificed over and the other five were thrown out at first base by Mainini. Wilmington, on the other hand, also went to the short game, sacrificing three runners over, popping up to the catcher once on a bunt and reaching first twice when bunts were mishandled. So this was a game to get the one run since both pitchers didn't give much leeway to do so.

Both teams were retired in order in each of the first two innings. With two outs in the top of the third, Billerica got their first hit on a marginal call, then that batter stole second. The top of the order followed and Mainini got that batter to pop up to third base.

In the bottom of the third, Colleen Cahill, an up and coming star to say the least as a freshman, singled to left after an out. Karen MacArthur sacrificed her to second and that's when Lyman went to his bench to call on a pinch runner for Cahill in just the third inning - to get that one run. With two outs now and pinch runner Nicole MacIver at second, Wilmington couldn't get her in with a groundout to end the threat.

In the fourth, Billerica managed a two-out harmless single and that was it and Wilmington responded with a three-up, three-down inning.

Mainini got the side in order in the fifth. It started with one of her five assists on the day for the first out, then the second out was a sharp grounder that went off of Cahill's glove at first, hopped to Catherine Townsend at second who threw back to Cahill at first to get the second out. The third out was a pop up behind home plate to the right of catcher Emily King. She quickly threw the mask off, concentrating and keeping her feet in play right at the opening of the Cats bench, and she caught the ball with her back to the plate to end the inning.

Wilmington was retired again in order in the bottom of the fifth, with all three outs coming by the K factor.

Now it became really interesting. The top of the sixth came and Billerica again tried for a lead-off bunt single, but Mainini put it away. The next batter singled, but was thrown out at second on a gun from King and a nice tag from Townsend. The inning ended when Mainini got her fifth strikeout to that point with five more added on in the next four innings.

The top of the seventh arrived and for the Wilmington team and fans, it certainly didn't come easy to get out of the inning unscathed upon. Billerica had there 3-4-5 batters up and the lead-off batter opened things up with a smack to center. The next batter followed with a single to left that went off of left fielder Melissa Wolfe's foot, but she recovered nicely throwing a bullet to Leann Bento at third who blocked the base and applied the tag. Now with a runner on second and one out, Billerica went to the bunt again moving the runner up 60 feet. With two outs, a pop fly ball was driven to short right field and Catherine Townsend made a fabulous over the shoulder catch on what should have been a base hit. Gulp!

Townsend led off the home half of the seventh with a walk. Melissa Mather sacrificed her to second, and Bento followed reaching first when her bunt was misplayed and she took second without a throw. With Townsend on third and Bento at second, Wilmington needed contact to end the game. They weren't able to do that with a strikeout and a groundout to end the serious threat.

Extra inning time. All Mainini did was strike out the side with a base hit sandwiched in-between. Wilmington in their home half of the eighth managed just a slap hit from Wolfe. Billerica went in order in the top of the ninth as Mainini continued to get stronger and stronger as the game progressed.

Now the lapse came for Wilmington, but really who could blame them after playing nine flawless and terrific innings? Billerica got things going when the first batter reached on an error. That followed with two bunts sandwiched around a strikeout, that had the Wilmington defense not able to get any runs whether throwing late to a base, or holding onto the ball. Now with the bases loaded and one out, Billerica scored their lone run on a passed ball. In the home half of the tenth, all Wilmington could muster was a slap hit by Wolfe again.

"We through the game around, but I'm not mad or anything," Lyman said. "All we want to do is finish up strong getting ready for the state tournament. We had two or three opportunities to win the game, and you have to come through against teams like this to win."

"This is a game that hopefully you will learn from your mistakes, we made four of them in the last inning and that was the difference. We played very well tonight and I'm not disappointed with the girls at all. This was a state tournament game, we had the chance to win it and we didn't."

White Sox overtake Tigers, 9-4

Major League

White Sox 9 Tigers 4

Kyle Browne, starting his first game for the Reading Trophy and Shirt sponsored White Sox, was super as he pitched six innings, striking out 20, allowing only six hits to the hard hitting Rep. Jim Miceli sponsored Tigers.

Kyle also led the Sox offense with three hits and three RBIs. The other offensive power came from the bats of Chris Dell'anno (two hits), Matt Brander and Mark Giordano.

Matt David went the distance for the Tigers, Peter Olivieri was the hitting star for the Tigers with a mammoth three-run homer in the bottom of the fifth inning. Craig Gil, Jay Culla, Tony Ruggiero, Kevin Velardo, and Matt David also had Tiger hits. Olivieri also did an excellent job behind the plate, catching two pop-ups and blocking balls well.

A's 21 Twins 11
The story of this game was a hitting barrage by both teams as the Burger King A's went on to beat the Wilmington Pump Supply sponsored Twins 21-11.

The A's opened the game scoring six quick runs in the top of the first, but the Twins countered with five runs of their own in the bottom of the inning. The A's took control with seven more in the third and four more in the fourth to go on to victory.

Hitting stars for the A's included

Kenny Luongo 4-for-4, Jon Stark 3-for-3, M-O (Mike O'Connor) 3-for-4 and Erik Pelletier with a pair of key hits, while Justin Maimoran Bobby Crowe and Mike Welch played a fantastic game in the field.

Big bats for the Twins included Travers 3-for-3 at the plate Derek Trueira, Ryan Connolly, Joey Mayo and Andy Berian each contributed two hits.

3 locals exceed Austin Prep softball team clinches league championship

By JEFF NAZZARO
Sports Correspondent

The Austin Prep softball team avenged an earlier loss at Hudson Catholic with a 5-0 blanking on their field Friday afternoon to secure a share of the Catholic Suburban League title. The Cougars, which feature three Wilmingtonites in their starting nine, improved to 9-1 in the league and 15-2 overall. They added win number 16 with a thrilling 3-2 victory over Matignon the next morning.

On Friday, Austin rode the rubber arm of sophomore fireballer Alexis Lawrence, who struck out 13 en route to her fourth no-hitter and twelfth shutout of the season and had enough left to beat Matignon the next day.

"She's a great pitcher, a smart pitcher," Austin coach Dave Gramling. "And the team gave her great support out there."

The Wilmington trio, beginning with junior Michelle McGonagle behind the plate, anchors a strong defense for the Cougars. Senior Jenn Audette plays right field-which, given the velocity Lawrence brings, gets the most traffic of the three outfield spots-and Sophomore Karen Hardy is the shortstop.

They didn't need the defense over the first two innings, as Lawrence and McGonagle played a particularly nasty game of catch to the tune of six strike outs, with two more in each of the third and fourth innings. It was fun to watch. McGonagle called the pitches and set up the target and Lawrence almost invariably nailed it. She got strikes at the knees early in counts and then induced batters to chase high hard ones.

Hudson put a runner on third with one out in the third when number eight hitter Kate Iacobucci whacked a changeup through the legs of third baseman Danielle Angiolillo, but Lawrence struck out the next two batters to kill the threat. Erin Hickie put a charge in one toward right field to lead off the fourth for Hudson, but Audette, despite a brutal, swirling wind, tracked it down and hauled it in.

Hudson Catholic put another runner on with two outs in the sixth, but McGonagle picked her off, throwing to first baseman Brandie Clarke, who threw to Hardy for the tag. One more reached on an error with one out in the seventh, but a liner to center field was caught by Natalie Barbanti, who doubled the runner up at first.

And that was it for Hudson Catholic on the day. Meanwhile, Austin was having troubles of their own battling a tough southpaw in Kelly Lively, who set down the first six she faced before Angiolillo beat out a bunt to open the bottom of the third. She was left at second, but in the fourth Austin struck for all it would need.

After McGonagle ripped a bullet right at the first baseman to start the frame, Lawrence helped herself out with a single and eventually scored, with Hardy right behind her, when Hudson started throwing the ball around. Hardy reached on an error by the shortstop.

Austin would pick up three more in the fifth, including the last two when McGonagle bunted with a runner on second, beat it out, turned the corner, drew a throw at second and then scored when it sailed into center field.

For Austin, the win was sweet revenge for their only league loss, a 7-3 defeat in Hudson, Mass.

"I think to beat them the second time makes us think we can beat a lot of good teams," said Audette, who feels her team is where it should be heading into post-season play.

"I think we're ready," she said.

"This is the first year we've beaten Matignon and we know we can go on and play with the big schools. If we put our hearts and minds to it, we know we can beat anyone."

Audette played a big role in that defeat of Matignon, which was the second this season. In the bottom of the sixth, with the score knotted at two, the Austin Prep Class of '98 female athlete of the year singled and then promptly stole second; when the ball went through to center field, she roared around to plate the winning run.

The senior leader has seen her young team come together and mature over the course of a season, picking up confidence and mental toughness with each big win.

"I think we've grown and become a better team," Audette said. "We all play as one now, not just individually."

Baseball team played ultimate classic and then?

are two great signs for the Cats that came out of their two losses on Monday and Tuesday: first off they proved they can play with anyone with their performance on Monday and second they proved that they have a very deep pitching staff with Sean Quigley tossing a gem in his varsity debut on Monday, while the Heffernan twins continue to do extremely well in their rookie seasons.

"Our pitching staff has really come around, it's really deep and that's great going to the state tournament," said Scanlon.

Led by Scott Swiezynski's 7-0 record, the Cats will counter with him on their first game of the tourney. He has had a sore arm as of late, but he should be fine with over a week off from the hill. Paul Fugere picked up a win last week even though he tossed 120 pitches against Amesbury. He is 2-5 on the season, but the team certainly needs his arm if they want to go far in the tourney.

As for the three youngsters, Mike Heffernan went deep in the game on Saturday notching a win against Malden Catholic, and he also pitched well in relief on Monday despite getting the loss. Pat, on the other hand, throws harder than Mike but doesn't have as much control, and he does very well in his relief outings. The two of them are a combined 3-2 on the mound and they too will be vital in their chances. Then there's Quigley. The sophomore threw a gem against one of the state's toughest teams in Reading, limiting them to a run on three hits and two walks in six plus innings. If he can throw like he did against Reading, that gives Wilmington five pitchers they can throw at any time. Five good ones for that matter.

Against Reading, both Quigley and Marc Cerasuolo were tossing no-hitters mid-way through the game. Reading's first hit came in the top of the fourth, but Dennis Grambolini was erased at first on a great running catch by Brian McCarthy in right field. Wilmington also got their first hit in the bottom of the fourth with Peter Grasso led things off with a base hit and he then swiped second. Grasso, who has a tremendous season, scored on a base hit by Jim O'Donnell, who has also had a terrific season thus far.

With the 1-0 lead, Wilmington got out of a jam in the fifth leaving a runner at third, but ran into trouble in the sixth. Dan Foley, who was the game's hero with several defensive gems at second, then singled. He went to second on a wild pitch and then went to third on a bad pick-off throw. Jamie Gath walked, but the next batter Jessie Woods reached first on a fielder's choice when third baseman Ryan Harrison gunned down Foley at home. After a pop up, Reading tied the game up on a RBI double by Mike Guarino.

Reading started the seventh inning off with a walk and that was it for Quigley, who was nothing short of marvelous. After a sacrifice bunt against Mike Heffernan, Foley reached first on another bunt, beating it out and sending Dave Polcari to third. Gath followed and he hit a rocket, no pun intended, back to Heffernan on the mound. Heffernan knocked it down and the ball bounced well in front of him. He charged after it, flicked it to Banda who blocked the plate beautifully tagging out Polcari. Now with runners at the corners, Reading tried for the double delay steal, but Mike didn't fall for it, tossing out Foley at third. That play also got the assistant coach of Reading tossed for arguing.

Harrison got things going after a great at-bat in the home half of the seventh. He chased two curves in the dirt before sending the same pitch out to left for a solid base hit. Fugere ran for him and he was thrown out at second on the bouncer back to the mound with Erik Banda safe at first. Banda stole second but stayed there when the next two Cats batters were retired.

Heffernan retired Reading in order in the eighth and Cerasuolo returned the favor. In the ninth, with two out and a runner at second, Reading eventually won the game when Steve Adelson singled to center driving in Ryan Carroll. As for the Cats, Dave DeAmato was left at second with one out and he would have been the tying run.

"It was a great game - we had our chances and we didn't do it. Sean pitched an outstanding game

- I couldn't have asked for anything better in his first varsity appearance," Scanlon said.

Wilmington was already trailing 5-1 going to the fourth inning on Tuesday against Tewksbury before they decided to play. In the fourth, they really started to hit, banging out triples from Matt Meuse (3-for-4, 3 RBI's) and Peter Grasso (2-for-4) as well as base hits from Brian McCarthy, Fugere (2-for-4), Tim Gillis (4-for-4, 2 RBI's) and a double by DeAmato.

Leading 6-5, Tewksbury answered with three more runs in the bottom of the fourth to retake the lead at 8-6. Wilmington made it 8-7 in the sixth on a RBI double by Tim Gillis, but Tewksbury added two insurance runs in the sixth to seal the game shut.

Under 9A boys continue impressive play in tourney

The Wilmington 9A team continued to play outstanding soccer, advancing to the playoff round at the fifth annual Tufts Soccer Bowl Tournament at the Tufts University in Medford.

The opening game of the tournament matched Wilmington against Winchester. The final score was a 4-1 tie. Shane Foley and Brendan DeMango set up a classic passing play to get the ball to Josh Mayo who scored. Winchester fought back scoring twice. Minutes later Rich Barry blasted in a spectacular shot to tie the game. Timmy Kent gave Wilmington another score just before the half ended with a beautiful goal off a direct kick. Shane Foley and Josh Mayo teamed up to put in the fourth goal for Wilmington off a save from the goalie and a great second effort never giving up on the play.

Wilmington took on Medford in the second game of tournament play and owned the game right from the start. Each player added to the 6-2 victory. Brendan Sheehan showed some spectacular moves on both offense and defense alike maneuvering around every blue shirt in his way. Dana Steenbruggen beat out the competition every time he was challenged as he carried the ball down the field over and over setting up some great plays. Greg Stewart did his part on offense making some spectacular passes as well as scoring two goals. Derek Derosa also played well as he cleared the ball out of Wilmington's goal territory multiple times throughout the game.

In the second day of competition, Wilmington took on the Stoneham Sidewinders and battled in a rough and tumble game for a 2-2 tie. Timmy Kent set up the first Wilmington goal as he took the ball all the way down the field and delivered it to Rich Barry for the goal. Brian Johnson was spectacular on defense throughout game and tournament overall as nothing got in the way of protecting his zone. Zach Church was also there defensively making several steals and then a beautiful corner kick to Josh Mayo for a goal. Brendan DeMango also played a terrific game moving the game well and delivering it into Stoneham's goal territory which led to several near misses.

Wilmington took on another Stoneham team in the final game of scheduled tournament play and despite a 6-2 loss played very respectable soccer against a much older and experienced team. Wilmington showed their never give up attitude in this which pitted them against boys two years older than themselves.

On Monday, Wilmington advanced to the playoff round once again taking on Winchester. The final score was 4-1 with Winchester taking the victory despite some outstanding play by a talented Wilmington team.

The team returns to regular season action next weekend as they take on Somerville.

Youth travel soccer

Under 9B boys team plays hard against Winchester

The U9B boys travel soccer team faced an undefeated Winchester team at Shawsheen field last Wednesday night. The locals were up for the challenge and made the visitors work from the starting whistle.

The ball possession was evenly split between the two sides with Winchester catching a lucky break as the ball deflected off the defender and into the Wildcat's goal. Defenders Matthew Brooks, Chris Azevedo and Pat Schultz worked hard to make sure there were no more mistakes. Hanson nearly converted the tying goal, but had to close the half behind by one.

The Wildcats knew that they could handle the challenge but needed that all important first goal. It came as Pat Ryan fed Michael Emery and Emery sent the well placed pass to forward Jesse Belding. Belding got the hard shot off as he peeled through two defenders and right before colliding with the Winchester goalie. This really sparked the local kids, with Mark Walsh, Dan Patterson and James Cuoco giving an all out effort to win the game. Keeper C.J. Jeannette again held the competition back, refusing to allow another goal.

Despite the valiant efforts and dominance in the second half ball possession, Wilmington had to settle for a tie game in the end. Final Score Wilmington 1-Winchester 1.

The boys also traveled to the Tufts Soccer Bowl in Medford over the Memorial Day Weekend and had a terrific time. They were involved in five games over the three days, scoring an amazing 17 goals, and allowing only seven goals against. The boys advanced into the final round Monday and collected patches from Medford, Somerville and Belmont. The team played incredibly well, and made it an enjoyable way for the parents and coaches to spend the holiday weekend. It was a lot of fun.

It was two weeks ago Saturday that the Wilmington Boys U9B soccer team traveled to a very soggy Melrose field to face the only team to deliver a loss to the Wildcats this season. For Wilmington, it started off with the familiar combination of Justin Patrie and Jesse Belding teaming up for the first goal.

As they have done before, within the opening minutes, Belding sent a perfect pass to the waiting Patrie who was in the right spot at place the ball into the net. The midfield was held together by Mark Walsh, Derek Hanson and Pat Schultz as they each gave another outstanding performance. Chris Azevedo, Dan Patterson and Michael Emery kept the forward attack going in the first half.

Melrose proved again to be a fierce second half team. While Wilmington's first goalie, Pat Ryan, saw minimal action, our next keeper, C.J. Jeannette was worked much harder. Melrose's play turned more physical as their frustration over having not scored increased. Sweepers James Cuoco and Matthew Brooks maintained control over the defensive zone. Wilmington's opportunities came from the foot of Patrie, Ryan, Belding, Patterson and Schultz, but we were unable to put this game away.

Then the controversy came, in the last minutes of the match, Melrose began a final attack. As the final whistle blew, one shot made it into the goal as Jeannette's view was screened. Although it was highly questionable as to whether or not the ball entered the goal before the whistle sounded, Melrose was given credit and the result was a shocking tie for the Wildcats.

The following weekend we were at home to face yet another tough team. This time a squad from Medford had the locals facing a battle. Medford came out fast and furious using a very aggressive and physical style of play. The boys found themselves needing to play in an immediate defensive mode and had to cope with numerous injuries due to the fiery and over-sized Medford players.

Despite great goal tending by Patrick Ryan, and nice defensive work from Dan Patterson and Michael Emery, we ended up down by two goals at the half.

The never say die Wildcats began the second half with spirit, determined to fight back and take charge of the game. It was obvious that Medford was going to play physically and we needed to get our passing skills into high gear and start getting more on the offense.

While Matthew Brooks and James Cuoco protected keeper C.J. Jeannette, forwards Jesse Belding, Derek Hanson, Mark Walsh and Justin Patrie got to work. Finally Patrie saw the opportunity to do a little fancy footwork and fire a shot giving Wilmington its first goal. Rejuvenated, the boys fired off two more near misses by Pat Ryan and Jesse Belding. Pat Schultz and Chris Azevedo kept the midfield in check and C.J. Jeannette made several impressive saves.

Unfortunately, Medford never relented, and converted a third goal before game's end. This was match of force with older and larger Medford players having the advantage this day. It was great to see the Wilmington boys' determination and lack of intimidation as they battled 'til the end. Final Medford 3 Wilmington 1.

Under 11A girls youth soccer team ties Concord-Carlisle

On Monday, May 18, the Wilmington Girls Under 11A youth soccer team traveled to Concord with a 2-2 outcome that evening. Due to a contested call, these two teams will rematch before the season ends.

Wilmington vs Concord
Early in the game, Concord's keeper mishandled the ball resulting in a direct kick for Wilmington outside of the box. Jackie Rideout tipped the ball to Julia Leverone who blasted it into the upper right corner of the net. In a questionable call, the referee negated the goal. Five minutes later Wilmington once again came knocking on Concord's door with a beauty of a blast by Jackie Rideout for Wilmington's first on the score board. At the end of the half, the opponents answered the challenge with their first goal.

Five minutes into the second half, Caitlin Foley volleyed squarely into the net off Julia Leverone's corner kick. In the waning minutes of the game, Concord rallied and tied the score to Wilmington's dismay. The Wildcats valiantly responded, aggressively pouring on the shots up to the last seconds of the game. Throughout the game, Teresa DeSimone and Caitlin McNabb provided able playmaking and Kelley Crosby and Celine DeMaggio stopped several Concord advances.

While the outcome appeared to be a tie, the first goal scored by Wilmington should have been allowed and the two teams will meet again.

Danvers Tournament
The Lady Wildcats traveled to compete in the Danvers Invitational

Memorial Day Tournament of May 23 and 24. Placing second in its grouping, the team posted a 2-1 record. In the first match played Saturday Wilmington faced a tough Salem team that trounced Wilmington in a 2-0 shutout.

On Sunday the girls rallied to defeat Middleton, 1-0 and Danvers 5-1 to end the tournament on an upswing.

Jessica Alosco set up the only goal in the Middleton game, crossing accurately to Jackie Rideout whose delivery blew past the keeper. In the Danvers game, the girls poured on the pressure, dominating play and shutting down the offense. Early in the game, the opponent's keeper couldn't secure the ball from a Julie Leverone corner kick, allowing the first goal. Five minutes later, Teresa DeSimone delivered a resounding blast assisted by Sarah McGowan.

Wilmington went on a scoring spree early in the second half to notch its remaining three goals. From the top of the box, Julia Leverone capitalized on a split defense, bagging the third goal. Bridget Kent tickled the net with a pass from Debbie Lyons, then scored again five minutes later off a cross from Sarah McGowan. With a few minutes remaining, Danvers turned up the heat, posting its only goal.

Keeper Alicia Braid turned in a fine tournament performance, punching away many a shot on goal and in the Danvers game, stopped a breakaway cold with a spectacular sliding save. Defenders Krystina Smith, Celine DeMaggio and Kelley Crosby kept goals against low, working tirelessly and precisely as a unit. Midfielders Caitlin Foley, Amy McHale and Caitlin McNabb performed commendably in their supporting roles.

Wilmington Library

Treasures in your attic: old and rare

Wilmington Memorial Library on Middlesex Avenue at 7:00 PM to have these questions answered by Kenneth Gloss, proprietor of the nationally-known Brattle Book shop in Boston.

The Friends of Wilmington Memorial Library is sponsoring the free and open lecture entitled "Treasures in Your Attic: Old and Rare."

On May 21, Gloss invited me to the three-story, antiques book store on 9 West Street, which is crammed shelf after shelf with old books, magazines, maps and other items. "The first two floors are general, second-hand, used books, prints, post cards and trade cards. The average price on these two floors is $5.25," said Gloss.

Lining the marble stairwell leading to the third floor are Life magazines. "Some people walking by the store will stop in just to look at the magazines," said Gloss. "Eighty percent of (the Life magazines) are in order in the basement. They make good birthday and anniversary presents."

The third floor is where customers can find rare books, organized by category and ranging from modern first editions to fine press. There are also manuscripts, autographs and antiquarian volumes from as early as the fifteenth century. Many of the rarest items are behind locked display windows, such as a $12,000 dictionary. "There is always an employee on the third floor with customers for safety precautions," said Gloss.

The bargain tables and side walk bins serve as "safety valves" for the store. As new stock comes into the store and is put on the shelves, the inventory that does not move is marked down to a $1.00 and placed outside. "We never have enough space. It's a perpetual problem," said Gloss.

The musty, used book emporium has even attracted movie set designers, seeking to rent items. "When the movie Armistad was being filmed (in Boston), there's a scene where John Quincy Adams is in a law library, and they needed to create that look for the movie. So, I went through my stock and selected the books that I had to fit that time period," said Gloss.

But, it is no surprise the store is so sought after. Gloss' father, George Gloss, purchased Brattle in 1949 and built-up the business with hard work and his love for books.

The store has moved seven times during the family's nearly fifty-year ownership. George Gloss was known through out the streets of Boston for his moving day sales. First, books would be marked down to half price, then to a dollar-fifty, then a quarter, then a dime. Everything was free on the last day of the sale. Posted on the store's wall beside the cash register is a picture of hundreds of people lined up outside the store waiting to grab whatever they could during one of the sales.

Whereas his father gave away books on moving day, Gloss is continuing on the tradition by donating books to various charities and poor communities. "I donate books to a lot of shelters," said Gloss. "Boston City Hospital has a Reach Out and Read program in the pediatrics department that I donated to. It's one way I can help and give something back."

Gloss is the recipient of a number of awards for his generous contributions, including one from the Historic Neighborhoods Foundation for making a definitive contribution to the design and social heritage of Boston.

Gloss has worked in the store since childhood, and the torch was passed to him after his father's death in 1985. "I didn't want to assume that the business would still do well," said Gloss. "So, I started doing lectures in 1985."

Gloss fascinates audiences twice a month at his lectures. Gloss explains what a rare book is, how to care for rare books and his background in the first part of the lecture. "I like to keep it light and easy. I get them interested," said Gloss.

The next 15 to 20 minutes is the question and answer session. "I'll do one or two free book appraisals for lecture-goers. At the end, I try to look at everything people bring. But, it's difficult because some people bring car loads of books," jokes Gloss.

He also brings along items from the store to show audiences, such as a publicity brochure from the Titanic, valued at $2,500.

Gloss stated that he acquires 80 to 90 percent of his items from estates and houses. "We're (he and his employees) always going somewhere, looking at books and meeting people. We get to see nice, expensive houses when we do some of the appraisals," said Gloss. He stated that he is looking for things that will resell when conducting appraisals.

Gloss described many of the unexpected treasures he has discovered while doing appraisals, which include: an early edition of the Declaration of Independence that later sold for $100,000, a leaf from a Gutenberg Bible, valued at $25,000 and poems by Robert Frost written on the pages of several invaluable books.

Gloss believes that the lectures are "a way of keeping the business' name out." Along with giving individual appraisals, Gloss has submitted appraisals to various colleges and universities, such as Harvard University, Boston College and Suffolk University. He welcomes the individuals he does not have a chance to speak with or attend the lecture to call the store at 1-800-447-9595 to make an appointment for a free appraisal.

With a resume that extends back

40 years, the Methuen native has seen the Wilmington school system go through many changes, particularly the West Intermediate.

"I've seen a tremendous growth in population," said Jordan. "For example, in 1989 there were 331 students here. This September we're expecting 440 students."

More students means the need for more space, and the school has experienced interior reconstruction to adjust to the increasing numbers. "Physically, we've had to make use of every space in the building," said Jordan. "The old metal shop was converted to a room for the reading teacher."

Similar to the other schools in town, the West Intermediate is moving into the modern age of combining technology and science. "Computers have come in. We're trying to get computers into every classroom. We now have a computer lab," informed Jordan.

But, it is when he begins to speak about the students that I realize why he is so dedicated to his job. "We spend a lot more time dealing with the courts and probation officers," said Jordan. "It's a small portion that actually do get into trouble. 98% of the kids are fine, but the ones that do take a lot of time."

He has also watched the students mature more quickly as the national polls on divorce and both parents working continue to rise. "Home life has changed with two parents working. It makes it a little difficult. Parents divorcing also has its toll on kids at this stage," said Jordan in a sympathetic tone. "Kids today grow-up so fast because they've been exposed to TV and the news media. So youngsters have to grow-up faster and they're not given enough time to be a kid."

He believes in maintaining an open-door policy with the teachers and students. "It is important that every student should have that one adult to turn to," said Jordan. This policy has helped him gain the respect of colleagues, many of whom lined up outside his office, waiting to gush about the principal.

"I've found him to be fair and a very good principal with the teachers and students. He lets teachers teach in their own style," said eighth grade science teacher Dan Spriggs, who taught with Jordan at the North Intermediate. "My philosophy is that we're here for the students and that's his philosophy too."

History teacher Bill Peabody also taught with Jordan at the North intermediate. "He's a people person. He listens to both the students and the staff. He keeps his thumb on the pulse of the building," said Peabody. "We're sad to see him go, but thrilled to see him enjoy some of the fruits of his good work."

But, Jordan is too modest to attribute the school's success to himself and quick to compliment the staff and parents. "The key to a good school is good class room teachers who enjoy working with the youngsters," said Jordan. "I have a lot of the parents' support with the activities we have at the school, which is very important."

Jordan hopes the individual who succeeds him embodies some of his qualities. "I would like someone who works as a team so you have a happy faculty and this filters down to the parents being happier about the school," he said.

What will the golfing and fishing buff miss the most after 40 years in the school system? "I'll miss the youngsters. I'll also miss the friendships I've formed and the people I've worked with. I've formed many good friendships," said Jordan. "Quit a few of the students are now teachers in town and I'd like to think I had a small part in that."

Selectmen's meeting

"At this time the plume appears not to be moving," said Steven Morrow of Olin. "But if it is moving, it's moving very slowly."

One of the fears some officials have expressed is that the plume could seep such contaminants like ammonia and chromium into the watertable. And while some substances from the plume can in fact diffuse into the watertable, officials said that the levels are so low that they merely affect the aesthetics of the water.

"We wouldn't have any health concerns at these levels," said Health Director Greg Erickson. "That's what we're trying to do is keep them at these levels."

Veterans Memorial

Members of the Veterans Memorial Committee where on hand to discuss the proposal to build a monument to honor residents who fought in various wars.

The proposal calls for the base of the memorial to be 18-feet, with the area surrounding it adorned with engraved bricks and granite. Park benches would occupy the area as well.

"What we want to do is to raise money by selling these bricks and granite to fund this monument," said committee member Edward Williams. Williams said that the engraved bricks would cost $55 and the granite would sell for $325 each.

After scouring the town for a suitable location, the veterans said that they feel that the town common would be the most logical site for the monument with the existing flagpole as a backdrop.

"This is basically the only place that we felt this monument would be appreciated by the town's people," said Williams.

While the committee is hoping to raise the $15,000 needed to erect the monument and additional funds to maintain it, it was suggested by board members that the town could possibly provide funding for the monument.

MAKE YOUR KITCHEN A REAL ASSET

There's no doubt about it--the kitchen is one of the most important rooms in the whole house for many prospective buyers. Smart sellers will take a close look at how they can make their kitchen a real asset when it is time to sell.

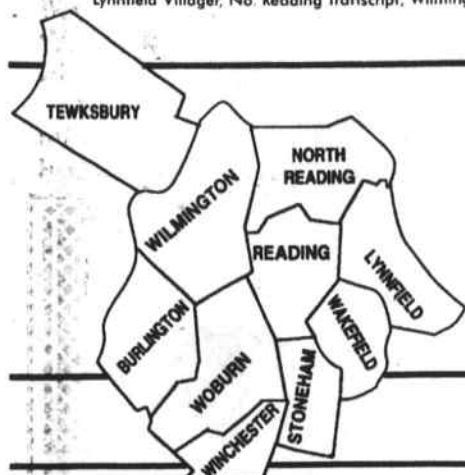

Your kitchen doesn't need to be state-of-the-art to be attractive. The first step toward enhancing your kitchen's appeal is a thorough cleaning. This includes the walls, cabinets (inside and out), floors, and appliances. Keep the counter tops as clear as possible of small appliances and gadgets. Consider low-cost improvements which can make a big difference, such as a coat of paint, fresh wallpaper, or new floor covering. Be sure to keep the kitchen sparkling when the house is being shown. This means no dirty dishes in the sink or moldy cucumbers in the refrigerator. This extra effort will pay great dividends!

Parent to Parent group

Trying to get parents to network

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

In the newspapers, on television, it seems wherever you turn the news is about teenage violence and suicide and lately the lack of parental response to troubled teens.

After two recent suicides in North Andover, school officials attempted to bring the parents into the loop in a manner that would help to provide a solution to the problem. However, when a low number of parents turned out to be there for their own children, surprise and shock were the reactions from the officials.

Excuses were made for the parents who work jobs that would not allow them to get home at a specified hour. However, that did not cover the majority of the parents.

For the Winchester based group Parent to Parent the outcome of the outreach program does not come as a surprise. Both Elaine DeLaney-Winn, president of the group's Advisory Board and Dr. Hillary Turkewitz, PhD., Parent to Parent's coordinator note that it is difficult at best to get parents of adolescents to acknowledge that their teenage children have to deal with the many complex problems facing the rest of the world today.

"Networking happens when kids are younger," Delaney-Winn said. "When the kids reach adolescence the parents aren't as willing to network because the issues are more complicated."

Getting parents to network is what the group is all about.

Parent to Parent was formed in 1982 by: Vandy French, principal of the McCall Middle School in Winchester; John Pirani, a Winchester High School special education teacher and Lacrosse coach; and Kay Tiffany a retired guidance counselor.

Dr. Turkewitz, who has been the coordinator since 1989, said, "They founded the group to address the needs of parents with adolescents. Within four years it was expanded to encompass all school age children and one year ago the parents of preschoolers were added."

Delaney-Winn is the first president of the group since it was incorporated as a not-for-profit agency last year. However, she has been a member for five years.

Turkewitz noted that moms of children as young as eight months old are now in the parenting groups.

The aim of the group is to educate the parents about local issues or to bring in experts on different issues from the outside.

Although the focus is on issues that arise in Winchester, parents from other communities are welcome to participate when the issues affect them.

The issues usually come from suggestions made by the advisory committee, made up of representatives from all the schools in Winchester, but some are also taken from local clergy, school personnel and people from the community.

The group is willing to do a forum on just about any topic that the parents or the focus groups request. However, they have found that it is harder to educate parents or attract them to forums on some topics than it is on others.

"Forever Plaid" - solid entertainment

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Forever Plaid
By Stuart Ross
Directed by Rick Sosny
Musical director Derelyn Kahler
At the Terrace Room in the Park Plaza Hotel
Boston
Box Office (617) 931-2787

The Scituate based Showstoppers have made their debut Boston appearance in a show that is already beloved by the many people that have seen it in the past.

The reputation of the show is upheld by the group, made up of Director Rick Sosny (Sparky), William McGolgan (Smudge), Duane Sullivan (Jinx) and Douglas A. Trudeau (Frankie). The Four Plaids are ably backed up by bassist Uncle Chester (Andrew Bergsten) and pianist, Tricxie (musical director Derelyn Carter).

With its nostalgic songs and theme of four street corner harmonists coming back from the dead to play their first big gig, the show has the danger of being maudlin. However, the music of the 1950's is fast paced and well planned to carry through the full 90 minute show (no intermission).

The cast uses some good timing to carry the show to the very edge of being maudlin. However, very importantly they do not cross the line.

The clumsy antics of Smudge are a good comic relief to the singing talent of all of the cast.

The group nicely portrays the innocence that was felt to be the 50's.

According to the legend the Plaids were on their way to pick up their tuxedos for their first big gig, when the car they were in was rammed by a busload of Catholic girls on their way to see the Beatles on the Ed Sullivan Show.

Thus we see the collision that caused the death of street corner harmonies with the birth of the British music invasion.

The group goes into several melodies with Sludge doing a styling of Tennessee Ernie Ford's "16 tons" right on the mark.

Although there is a lot of innocence in the show, the group

Magic in Wakefield

THE BIG NAZO PUPPETS will be on hand in Wakefield on Saturday, June 6th for two performances as part of the town's 5th annual gala Midsummer Night celebration.

It's a "first night" - in June! On Saturday, June 6th, from 4 to 11 pm Wakefield will celebrate its fifth annual "Midsummer Night" with 55 performances at nine different venues along Main Street and on Wakefield Common. The popular event, first presented in 1994 as the focal point of the town's 350th anniversary celebration, is now an annual presentation.

Featuring trolleys running up and down Main Street, strolling performers, clowns on parade, sidewalk demonstrations, face painting and a gourmet Food Court on the Upper Common, the program will also feature world-class entertainment.

From its spectacular start, when the Star Spangled Flyers parachute onto Main Street to its evening concerts on the Common, the event features fun for families and kids of all ages. The fabulous "Big Nazo," giant puppets, who have delighted audiences throughout the world, will be seen in two performances.

The town's Armory will host the thrilling, Skyriders Trampoline group and the zany comedy of Bobarino Gravittino and his Big Underwear. Other featured acts include the Soap Bubble Spectacular, Bubblemania, comic magician Bruce Mackenzie Johnson, Sparky's Puppets, Undercover Clown, Rami Salami, king of balloons, the Just Puppets Marionettes and the juggler extraordinaire, the Jim Show! For music lovers, a string quartet from the New England String Ensemble will perform the bluegrass sounds of Salamander Crossing and the folk music harmonies of Black Tie Banjo, pop group sameasyou and the new age music of Tapper and Bridges will be featured as well.

Admission buttons are your tickets to the events and attractions. In advance, buttons are $6 each, 5 for $25; on June 6th, buttons are $9 each, 5 for $40. For information on the event, please call 246-3070.

Nature Festival

The Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary on Perkins Row in Topsfield will hold its first annual Audubon Nature Festival on Sunday, May 31 from 10 am to 4 pm. Enjoy nature walks, canoeing, children's activities, food sales, demonstrations, workshops on butterfly gardening, build-a-bird house, water garden design, plantings for birds, backyard composting, and much more!

A special feature will be a plant sale offering annuals, perennials and shrubs that will attract butterflies, hummingbirds and other wildlife to your garden. Admission is just $5 a car, so load 'em up and come on out to the Sanctuary for a great time! RAIN OR SHINE. Some workshops may require a materials fee.

To reach the Sanctuary: from the junction of Rt. 1 and Rt. 97 in Topsfield, turn south onto Rt. 97, then take the second left onto Perkins Row. The Sanctuary is one mile down Perkins Row on the right. For more information call the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at 978-887-9264.

About The Towns by Phyllis Nissen

Get 'into' town!

'ICOM' extends welcome to Reading

"Be on the lookout for the VIP Value Pac! This is a coupon book made for the town of Reading by a new local business named ICOM Associates," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Offering 30 businesses, 74 different coupons, and up to $3,000 in savings, this coupon book sells at $10. A bonus is that, due to a partnership between ICOM and the Downtown Steering Committee, approximately 40 percent of the proceeds will go to the Steering Committee for the town's revitalization process."

"Not only does VIP Value Pac save the consumer money, it offers them the incentive to keep their money in Reading for a change," says Ryan Condon, an ICOM team member. "All of the businesses in the VIP Value Pac are located in Reading and have received their advertising spot for free."

"Currently DiGiacomo's is the only business in town committed to selling the coupon book."

BIRTH

BRIAN and GAIL (CROSBY) DONOVAN announce the birth of their daughter, Kate Marie, on March 16, 1998 at Beth Israel Hospital.

Grandparent honors are extended to Richard and Marilyn Crosby and Edward and Noreen Donovan, all of Reading.

"We hope to receive more support from the downtown businesses after about a week or so," said Condon. "Once people see the savings and opportunities offered in the VIP Value Pac we're sure our program will take off...."

A 'common' era begins in Stoneham

"A plan for a 90-space municipal parking lot in downtown Stoneham was approved for submittal to the Board of Selectmen by the Town Common and Parking Committee's unanimous vote," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Known as phase I of the major development project designed to enhance Stoneham's downtown, the construction of this municipal parking area precludes the creation of a town common that will provide visibility and access to the Town Hall on Central Street from Stoneham's hub, Main Street."

"Based on comments from the last meeting, Gene Bollinger, from the architectural firm of Levy, Eldredge & Wagner Associates, Inc., presented to the committee an updated plan for the parking lot with the major change being the moving of amenities (i.e., landscaped areas, trees, and shrubs) to the perimeter of the lot in order to accommodate a maximum number of vehicles within it, an increase of approximately 25 spaces from the last design."

"The lot will expand the existing parking area, which currently lies between McDonough's Liquor Store and the Fire Station. The additional parking area has been made possible by the town's acquisition of several properties, including the Franklin Street businesses of Roy Costa Auto Body and Flood's Service Center, as well as Patriot Tire on Block Street...."

'Bells and whistles' ring in North Reading

"Voters said 'Yes' to a new ambulance but 'No' to a four wheel drive sport utility vehicle for the Fire Chief at Town Meeting," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Voters had no problem spending $150,000 to replace the fire department ambulance, described as the most heavily used and perhaps most vital, piece of equipment in town. But they balked at spending $35,000 to replace the Fire Chief's car with a 4X4 SUV. Currently, Fire Chief Ed O'Brien drives a recycled police cruiser."

"The new ambulance will replace the current front line 1993 vehicle, which will be retired to back up status."

"Chief O'Brien said the new ambulance will have a larger chassis and longer life than the present model."

"Voters also spent $200,000 for a new pumper truck and $13,500 for a water rescue craft. But they drew the line at O'Brien's request for a 4X4 command vehicle."

"I cannot help but think we're getting into bells and whistles," commented Daniel Solomon...."

SPORTS SHORTS

• MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: In honor of David Wells' perfect game recently, here's this question: There were three perfect games pitched during the 1960's. What three pitchers hurled them? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

• WOBURN'S GARY MELLO took home a third place in the 1500 meters (4:10.04) at the Snowflake Classic at Tufts University.

• THE READING BASKETBALL CAMP, a players camp for Girls entering grades 4-8, will run for one week only, July 13-17, at the Hawkes Field House in Reading. The sessions will run from 9:30 am until 1 pm. The camp is run by directors Ed Leyden (Suffolk University Coach) and Susan Stewart (Varsity Coach, Central Catholic High School), and the cost is $85 for the entire 17 hour week. Call Ed Leyden at 978-664-2143 for more information.

• WOBURN'S RICK SMITH played his final season as a member of the Nichols College baseball team this year. Smith finished with a .378 batting average, two homeruns, 23 runs scored (tied for second) and a team-high 24 RBI. Smith also tied for the team lead with 10 walks. Defensively, he made only seven errors in 182 tries for a .962 fielding percentage. Smith saw action on the mound in four games. In 14 2/3 innings he was 2-0 with a 7.37 ERA. The two wins tied for second on the team.

• Need a clue or two to help solve the trivia mystery? Jim Bunning is one of the pitchers.

• WILMINGTON'S MIKE ALONARDO, a senior on the UMass-Lowell baseball team, was named the NECC Pitcher of the Week recently. At the time he carried a 3-0 record with a 2.86 ERA.

• TEWKSBURY'S PAMELA MCNEIL, a sophomore on the UMass-Lowell softball team, is hitting .367 and has 16 steals in 17 attempts.

• ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The three pitchers are Jim Bunning, who pitched one for Philadelphia in 1964 against the Mets; Sandy Koufax, who threw one for the Dodgers in 1965 against the Cubs; and Jim "Catfish" Hunter of the A's, who threw a perfect game against the Twins in 1968. Congratulations to those who answered the question correctly, and look for this space next week to find another sports-related trivia question.

• DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, MA 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday. Items can also be faxed at 781-942-0884.

Treat macular degeneration

The devastating effect of sight loss in many elderly Americans can be eased by a new medical treatment that can reduce further loss.

An estimated 1 million Americans now suffer severe sight loss from an eye disease called age-related macular degeneration (AMD). Ten million Americans are affected with AMD and related eye diseases. Most frequently, the disease begins to appear in people over age 60. And it can occur in those as young as 40.

The part of the eye known as the macula allows for central vision that's necessary for reading, driving and recognizing faces.

People with macular degeneration often have blurred vision; a dark spot or empty area in the center of their vision; and the unusual symptom of straight lines appearing wavy.

According to the American Academy of Ophthalmology, 90 percent of macular degeneration cases are "dry", slow to develop and only cause mild vision loss.

But for the other 10 percent who develop the "wet" form of the disease, fluid builds up around the macula, and central vision can be lost. Symptoms can develop quickly and legal blindness can occur in a matter of weeks if left untreated. In fact, the wet form of AMD accounts for nearly 90 percent of all blindness from the disease.

While the cause of macular degeneration is unknown, medical science is working in several areas to find a cure, or at least slow down or stabilize loss of vision.

One such treatment that offers new hope is proton beam therapy.

A study of macular degeneration patients begun at Southern California's Loma Linda University Medical Center Proton Treatment Center more

Proton therapy is non-surgical and takes only one minute to perform. The treatment is non-invasive and painless, and allows patients to continue their Proton therapy is being used in more than 20 cancer sites, and is being used to cure other diseases.

The best hope for retaining useful vision is early detection and early treatment, which means having annual eye exams and checking with your ophthalmologist as soon as you experience any of the symptoms.

Choose your doctor

HMO eliminates "gate-keeper" medicine

BOSTON (AP) — Decide for yourself what kind of doctor you want to see?

That privilege has been disappearing in the years of managed care and required referrals.

But starting in April, Harvard Vanguard Medical Associates is going to start letting its 295,000 members do the choosing. It will be the first physician group practice in the state — and one of just a handful in the country — to remove the so-called "gatekeeper" plan of medicine.

"You will be able to see any doctor in our group, any time and for any reason," said Dr. Robin Atlas, Harvard Vanguard's chief medical officer.

The change is especially noteworthy because Harvard Vanguard helped create the referral rules when it was part of Harvard Pilgrim Health Care, one of the nation's oldest health maintenance organizations.

HMOs have long maintained that they were able to reduce costs and improve health care by having a patient's primary care physician decide when a patient could see a specialist.

The HMOs started reconsidering the practice after patients began to switch to less restrictive plans. So-called point-of-service plans, for example, let patients pay a fee to see doctors who are not in the network.

Preferred provider organizations allow patients to see specialists without a referral.

Between 1993 and 1997, enrollment in HMOs grew just 11 percent, compared to a 21 percent increase for point-of-service and preferred provider plans.

It's unclear, however, whether HMOs will be able to afford the change.

"Freedom costs money," Kenneth Abramowitz, a New York health care analyst for Sanford Bernstein, told The Boston Globe.

Without a gatekeeper, patients will be more likely to see a specialist more often. And that means higher health care costs.

Teenage depression was one such topic, although the group had received a number of requests to address the problem. Delaney-Winn explained that in 1995 a high school youth survey was conducted showing that 10 percent of the teenagers were dealing with depression of some kind.

Turkewitz said, "That is a hard topic to do a community education program about."

"People find it difficult to say that is a problem that their children have."

Delaney-Winn noted that at the time the high school attempted to hold a program on the subject and the turnout was very small.

"With depression it is hard to get people to come," Delaney-Winn said.

Turkewitz said that child molestation is another tough program to get parents to accept.

Parent to Parent received a number of requests to present a program on sexual abuse prevention right after the case in Cambridge when young Jeffrey Curley was kidnapped, raped and killed.

She was reluctant to present the program as a previous program on the topic drew only four people. This time it drew six people.

"If parents would really address the issues they could empower the children," Turkewitz said. "If they were more comfortable addressing the issues of sex they could better protect the children."

She added, "Parents get so embarrassed about sex they do not want to talk about it."

According to Turkewitz, "Parents think they are protecting the child by telling them not to talk to strangers."

She explained that to a child that is telling them not to talk to someone who looks strange or weird.

Delaney-Winn said, "It is telling your children what not to do instead of what to do."

According to Turkewitz, the problem is to not talk about sex but to talk about a similar subject which the children can comprehend such as tickling.

That is one of the main goals of Parent to Parent, according to Turkewitz, to educate the parent on how to deal with the child.

"We try to create forums for people to talk to each other," Delaney-Winn said.

Turkewitz noted that one of the outcomes is that people start to bond with each other and start to keep a protective eye on the children of parents they have met in the group.

Another outcome of the small sessions of the group is that parents see they are not alone in trying to deal with many situations.

"They find out they are not the toughest parents on the block or the easiest."

Turkewitz said, "When they see other parents dealing with similar issues they stop being so self-critical."

Another facet of Parent to Parent is to work with the schools in an attempt to help facilitate home/school collaborations.

Turkewitz explained, "We try to co-sponsor some programs. The educators say this is what we are doing in our buildings and this is what we think you (the parent) should be doing (at home)."

Parent to Parent co-sponsors two programs, one to bring elementary school kids to the middle school for a day of games and fun so that they can get used to the building before they move up in grade.

A more formal program is held to bring the middle school children into the high school.

Getting the men involved in the programs is a problem for the group. However, it is one that they actively work on.

Parent to Parent receives a major part of its funding from Winchester's Enka Society and by fundraisers such as the "A Tapestry of Tales: A Family Story Telling Festival" held in October.

The group has brought such speakers as Harvard University's Catherine Steiner-Adair and Barney Brawer in a two part session Women's Development and Bringing up Sons.

This fall University of Massachusetts Professor Sut Jhally will be speaking on the impacts of advertising on America.

New hiring policy in Wakefield

"A sharp increase in long term leaves on the part of school personnel has caused Superintendent Terrance Holmes to come up with a new policy for the hiring of short-term substitute teachers," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"According to a report he gave to the School Committee, the process runs something like this: rather than hire a substitute teacher for a day, the school administrator would see if there was another permanent substitute available for that time period from another building. If not, then a teacher aide who is certified and available to take that class would be summoned to the task."

"Failing that option, help to supervise the classroom would be rounded up from support learning services such as the learning center. If that option was unavailable, then the other non-direct classroom people within the building would be tapped, such as guidance counselors, department chairs and principals."

"If all of that fails, then the school could draw from a set of people throughout the district who could pinch hit in the classroom," explained Holmes, "including yours truly...."

A full-Nelson in Burlington

"Stephen Nelson ran unopposed in 1996 when he was elected to his first term on the School Committee," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The competition was similar for the Fairfax Street resident recently."

"There were no other nominations for School Committee chairman, and Nelson was voted to the post by a 4-0 tally (Jack Lyons was absent)."

"Nelson is in the third year of his first term on the school board. He is a former Ways and Means Committee member who ran unsuccessfully for the School Committee in 1992."

"Nelson replaced Thomas F. Murphy Jr., who was chairman last year."

"Murphy, questioned after the meeting, said there is a 'definite time commitment' that comes with the chairmanship."

"Murphy stretched his time between being chairman, his job as a lawyer, and his family, he said."

"When Steve expressed interest, I was more than willing to hand over the gavel, so to speak," said Murphy.

"Nelson thanked his colleagues for the vote and presented a plaque to Murphy for his year of service as chairman."

"It's been a long, exciting

Looking for a change?

year," said Nelson. "You were a very good leader. I enjoyed working with you and I enjoyed your insight...."

Eligibility requirements in Wilmington

"The proposed adjustments to the current participation requirements in extracurricular activities raised concerns and questions at the school committee," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"The current policy requires that any student who is participating in an extracurricular activity must secure during the last marking period preceding the start of the activity a passing grade in the equivalent of four full year courses. According to the high school's Principal Edward Woods, the Eligibility Committee has determined that the requirements for participation in extracurricular activities should be adjusted. "To be eligible in the fall marking period, students are required to have passed for the previous academic year five full courses," reads a letter from Woods to School Superintendent Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell.

"Eligibility for extracurricular activities includes all athletic teams at the varsity, junior varsity, and freshman level, various clubs, organizations and student government activities."

"Members of the school committee expressed their disapproval of the proposed eligibility requirements even though the standards are being raised from four full-year courses to five...."

MOVIE REVIEWS

BY PAUL FEELY

"Godzilla": It's no thriller

MOVIE: "GODZILLA"

GRADE: **

Review: According to the ad campaign for this one, size does matter, but this movie may have gotten too big for its britches.

Yes, the big lizard has been updated using current computer wizardry, and the effects are the main reason to see this movie. But beyond that the plotline is pretty weak (then again, you can't exactly call a 20-story reptile attacking the Big Apple Shakespeare, now can you), and stars Matthew Broderick, Jean Reno, and Maria Parillo are little more than window dressing as the mayhem ensues.

Fans of the Godzilla series will be disappointed by this entry, which, though bigger, certainly isn't better than those campy monster movies of the 1970's.

Length: 144 minutes

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "THE HORSE WHISPERER"

GRADE: ****

Review: If there is still any doubt in anyone's mind that Robert Redford is an exceptional director, this film will wipe it away.

Redford takes the popular novel and improves upon it, taking on the role of a gifted horse trainer himself. Kristen Scott Thomas plays a woman who moves from the hectic pace of city life with her daughter, who was injured by their horse during an accident, to the country life to convince Redford's character to work with the three of them, who haven't been the same since the accident. Redford and Thomas' character eventually have a romantic interest, which doesn't end the way you might expect.

Redford deftly uses the horse itself to convey emotion, and the shots of the countryside and horizon are stunning.

Rated: PG-13 (some violence)

Length: 164 minutes

MOVIE: "DEEP IMPACT"

GRADE: ***

Review: The race between film companies to see who could destroy civilization as we know it first was won by this entry starring Tea Leoni, Morgan Freeman, and Robert Duvall.

An asteroid the size of Manhattan is headed toward Earth, and will wipe out life as we know it if it strikes. Leoni plays the television reporter who stumbles across the story as she investigates what she thinks is an extramarital affair, and breaks the biggest story in history to the world.

Freeman plays the President of the United States, who is saddled with explaining the plan of attack to save the world, as well as the backup plan to hold a national lottery to see who will be chosen to live in an underground cave for two years and eventually rebuild civilization, and who will be left on the surface to die.

Duvall heads up a team of astronauts who are sent into space to intercept the asteroid, and attempt to divert its path away from our planet.

This film tugs on the emotional heartstrings, as characters come to grips with their own mortality once the lottery is held, and many know the countdown to their own deaths is on. The special effects used to show the destruction of Manhattan are first-rate, as is Freeman's performance as the President.

Rated: PG-13 (minor language)

Length: 122 minutes.

The House of the Week

Country Comfort

SMOOTH, CLEAN ROOFLINES, a railed front porch, shuttered windows and a natural stone chimney give this home a rustic, country flavor.

Plan G-80, by Homestyles Designers Network, is designed to provide a variety of comfortable, relaxing living areas while maintaining a rustic flavor. It has 1,775 square feet of living space.

A covered front porch is an inviting spot for spending leisure time.

With a fireplace and surrounding windows, the living room is another ideal space for relaxation. An optional railing would separate this spacious room from the foyer and the hallway. The living room leads to a nice-sized dining area that overlooks a backyard patio and opens to a screened porch.

The porch connects the two-car garage with the home, and offers a cool and protected place to dine on warm summer days. It also provides access to the back patio, a spot suited for, among other things, a summer barbecue or soaking up the sun.

Centrally located, the walk-through, U-shaped kitchen features a sink beneath windows and a counter bar that is shared with the dining room. A pantry closet and a utility room with laundry facilities are to the right. Three large bedrooms comprise the home's sleeping wing. The master bedroom has a well-lighted sleeping chamber, and features a roomy private bath with a step-up spa tub, a separate shower and two walk-in closets.

The secondary bedrooms have ample closet space and share a compartmentalized hall

G-80 Statistics

Design G-80 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, two baths and a utility room, totaling 1,773 square feet of living space. This plan includes a daylight basement, crawlspace or slab foundation, and 2x4 exterior wall framing. The screened porch adds 246 square feet to the plan, and the attached, two-car garage covers 441 square feet.

For a more detailed, scaled plan of this house, including guides to estimating costs and financing, send $4 to House of the Week, P.O. Box 1562, New York, N.Y. 10116-1562. Be sure to include the plan number.

BEYOND THE COVERED FRONT PORCH, a compact foyer introduces the living room to the left, which, in turn, leads to the dining area, which is open to the kitchen. A door in the dining room opens to a screened porch, which connects the home with the two-car garage. A utility room and a pantry closet are just off the kitchen, and a door in the utility room leads to the rear patio. The three bedrooms are along a long hallway, which ends at the master suite. The two secondary bedrooms share a compartmentalized hall bath.

Homeowner Q&A's

Q: We will be installing a new sink in our bathroom that, according to a plumber friend of mine, will need to be vented with a new vent line. We've both sized up the situation and agree that running the new line through the existing walls will be a very difficult job entailing major demolition and reconstruction. Is there any alternative to venting the sink without this major construction project?

A: You may be able to use a ventless, or antisiphoning, valve. This valve opens automatically to admit air, which prevents water from being siphoned from the trap, then closes to block the escape of sewer gas.

The valve installs behind the trap and solvent-welds to 1 1/2-inches diameter plastic pipe. It can be joined to the same diameter metal pipe if its solvent-weld adapter is discarded. Although the valve meets national plumbing code requirements, it may not meet local standards. Check before you install it.

Accent your home

Here's a fun and easy painting project. With a few inexpensive materials, you can customize a clay pot or a mailbox to accent your home or create a unique gift to give for a housewarming, wedding, holiday or any other occasion.

A new 21 page, full-color guidebook called, "Pots and Mailboxes" will show you how it's done. It comes with step-by-step directions, a big pull-out pattern sheet, a color conversion chart and tips and techniques for 27 different projects featuring 11 different designs.

Almost any clay pot or mailbox can be painted, although standard metal mailboxes were used in these designs. Both pots and mailboxes are available at most hardware stores and home centers. Other materials include acrylic paints, primer, stencils and brushes. And if you plan to give your pot or mailbox as a gift, you may wish to fill it with gourmet goodies, champagne or other appropriate gifts.

Whichever design you choose, the steps are always the same: apply a coat of primer, transfer the pattern and paint the design. In addition to "Outdoor Fun" (shown here), designs include "A Sunny Day", "The Christmas Season", "Elegant Roses", "The Halloween Season" and six others. The "Pots and Mailboxes" guidebook, No. P9232, is $9.95. Fifteen more fun and easy painting projects can be found in a full-color, 35 - page guidebook called "Painted Country Birdhouses," No. P9191, for $11.95. Prices include postage and handling. Please allow 3 - 4 weeks for delivery (for first class mail, add $1 per item up to $3 maximum).
